

Commercial Security Officers

Securitas offer a dedicated commercial security branch, where the security services needs of customers who require a multi-faceted solution to their security needs are fully serviced through dedicated security professional supported by all of our dedicated focused resources and dedicated management.

Security demands within the Irish Commercial industry are varied and, in many ways, your needs may be unique. Whether it's controlling access, protecting intellectual property, reducing internal theft, frontline first face security, combination services or safeguarding people and assets, security must be innovative, comprehensive and integrated to maximise its effectiveness.

Our console operators monitor CCTV, access control, fire detection and intrusion detection and building management systems. We also monitor visitor arrivals and departures, coordinate with officers on patrol, and respond to routine and emergency situations for our customer's.
